IF LINCOLN CAME TODAY?!!

To Free the Whites As Well

International Money Changers

I happened to drop into the office of a friend, an executive of a large business concern, on some business. In the course of the conversation I told him that I was going to address an Open Forum meeting in Los Angeles on Lincoln Day, giving the highlights of Lincoln's greatest services to this nation as well as discussing his peculiar personal characteristics.

"Too bad we haven't got a man like Abe Lincoln today", ventured my friend. "What would happen if Lincoln were here today?" "They'd shoot him", was my prompt rejoinder.

Lincoln's greatest achievement was the issuance of non-interest bearing bonds, thus freeing the nation from paying interest, out of taxes, to the international money octopus who is interested in making wars, prolonging wars, and spreading the war to the five continents. The longer the war lasts, the more interest they get on the public bonds. The farther they spread it "all over the world, again and again", the deeper the world gets into hock to them. With a bonded debt of 100 billion dollars we have already given away ONE QUARTER OF THE WEALTH OF THIS NATION to the International Bankers by pledging them interest payments to the tune of increasing BILLIONS every year, for what? For the privilege of allowing them to allow us to print our own money. THAT'S what we pay interest for. THEY have not got 100 billions to lend us, there is not that much money in the whole world.

If Lincoln came today and printed non interest bearing bonds he would be shot again by the same gang that did it then.

The Federal Reserve Bank is a private corporation owned and controlled by the international money octopus who restrict and manipulate credit to suit themselves; expand and contract the value of money and call in loans and mortgages to ruin those whose business they decide to gobble up. They own us hide and hair and dictate the policies of the world as well as of this nation. THEIR candidates in the last election were Wee Wendell Willkie and Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Remedy: No Taxes, Unlimited Credit

I have been called by readers of THE BROOM who charge me with destructive criticism because they say that I point to defects but fail to name the remedy. To correct the present economic, national and international situation, we must adopt two coures which are identic in scope. The Principle involved lies in the Commandment, THOU SHALT NOT STEAL!

Our method of taxation is all wrong. The government shall have no power to tax, which means to confiscate private property for public use without paying due and full compensation as provided for in our constitution, fifth Amendment. Revenue shall be derived from the increase in land values DUE TO public service. That increase is called by the technical term of RENT for the public service rendered at that locality; when capitalized by private agents and sold to the tenants it is called land rent. The truth is: it belongs to all the people as a result of the people's service at that location. Remove the people and the "land value is NIL". Therefor, abolish taxes and collect the RENT only for the public service, it BELONGS to the people and NOT to private individuals who happen to hold title to that piece of ground.

Our method of issuing money is equally in violation of the constitution as our method of confiscation by taxation. The congress alone has power to coin money and regulate its value. But the congress has delegated that duty as a "privilege" to the international bankers who regulate our CREDIT standing. The word money is out of date. Today CREDIT takes its place. Nobody needs money as long as the banks consider him a good risk to extend credit to him. Credit does it all. Credit is given by a signature on a piece of paper which becomes as good as money when the banks consider it a good obligation that the signer will make good.

Therefor, we need a new credit system by which every individual will be given unlimited credit according to his worth and ability to produce goods and render services. If the government thereafter is unable to tax him out of his earnings and ruin his business, the nation again will become one of great individual prosperity and re-establish a high standard of living and of freedom, the highest ever.

The Alien Film Industry

WASHINGTON,— Sen. D. Worth Clark (D-Id), who headed last year's senate investigation of the film industry, described as "little short of outrageous" the deferment from military service of movie actors, directors and technicians who cannot be replaced.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont), who, as interstate commerce committee chairman appointed Clark's subcommittee, said he could not understand how the deferment ruling was issued unless "political pressure was brought to bear."

Boards Instructed

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, sent instructions to California draft boards Feb. 4 to defer "actors, directors, writers producers, cameramen, sound engineers and other technicians" who cannot be replaced.

Schaefer said Hershey ruled the film industry was, in certain respects, essential to the national health, safety and interest and in some phases essential to war production.

Hearings Cited

Clark said the hearings he conducted "showed conclusively a large part of the movie industry deliberately set about upon a campaign of propaganda to drive the American people into this war."

"It is a strange irony that this huge industry, made up partly, at least, of foreigners, has been able not only to demand exemption from serving their country in its armed forces but is apparently so finanically powerful that it has been able to achieve this end," he said.

RIGHT AND TRUTH

The man who dares to think, to live,
True to his soul's divinest light,
Shall to the world an impulse give,
For truth and right.

The brave in heart, the true in mind,
Will dare to see the truth aright,
While coward souls, perverse and blind,
Will shun the light.

But tho all eyes on earth were closed,
Still would the sun as brightly shine,
And truth, by all the world opposed,
Is still divine.

Right will be placed upon the throne
And there will rule with power,
The thot and act of honor sworn
Will speed the glorious hour.

That which men abuse today,
Men of the future will adore,
And truth which error seeks to slay,
Lives evermore.

Spreading War to Eire

WASHINGTON,— Washington is exerting every ounce of pressure, political, economic and military, to persuade Eire to enter the war on the side of the Allies. F. D. R. cannot afford to tip his hand, but the evidence of United States influence is so forceful that there can be no dispute over our highhanded policy. It was at Churchill's personal request that we dispatched an A. E. F. to Ulster, which supports London in the prosecution of the war. The excuse for sending our men to North Ireland was that they would replace British soldiers needed in the Far East and the Middle East. But the fact is that the presence of an American expeditionary force in the upper countries will draw Hitler's fire. Der fuehrer will bomb our new bases and thereby suggest to the De Valera government that it may not remain immune from foreign attack. The forwarding of our troops to territory adjacent to the neutral nation was designed to bring anti-British Irishmen within the zone of flames.

President Roosevelt and Secy. Hull are resorting to other measures to swing Erin's prime minister to our side. We have agreed privately to supply his people with food and munitions. So don't be surprised if Dublin begins to sing "Star Spangled Banner" instead of "They're hanging and women for the wearin' of the Green".

—Ray Tucker.

ADVICE

In with the belly, out with chest
Keeps you of all misfortune abreast.

Down with the chin, up with the eyes
Raises your mind above the skies.

Step on your toes, not on your heels,
Notice how different your brain feels.

Going up breathe in, going down breathe out,
Walk in the sun, making your route.

Keeping your mind on the Infinite
Makes you for all that is noble fit.

A. E. F. Protested By DeValera

DUBLIN,— Eamon de Valera, the Brooklyn-born prime minister of neutral Eire, vigorously protested the landing of United States troops across the border in Northern Ireland and the renewed emphasis thus placed on the rift between Eire and the six counties of the north.

De Valera based his protest on the fact that the Irish government was "not consulted either by the British government or the American government" on the arrival of the troops, and added:

"It is our duty to make it clearly understood that, no matter what troops occupy the six counties, the Irish people's claim for the union of national territory and for supreme jurisdiction over it will remain unabated."

Might Fight the U. S. A.

Simultaneouly Minister of Supplies Sean Lemass, in a spech here, declared that Eire's independence and neutrality faced increasing danger and might have their supreme test in the coming year. He made no further elaboration on that statement.

De Valera said that his people have "no feeling of hostility toward and no desire to be brought in any way into conflict with the United States."

DeValera Resents American Invasion

NEW YORK,— The angry protests from Eamon DeValera against the arrival of a contingent of United States soldiers in Northern Ireland surprised only those who do not know the iron-jawed premier. When a statesman has been a hunted fugitive, a captive in jail, and has heard the sentence of death passed upon him for political actions, there comes a toughness to his convictions which almost nothing can soften. The former martyr is grimly determined to keep Eire neutral like Sweden and Portugal. Arguments, appeals to old friendships, warnings of coming doom, all mean nothing to this zealot.

Under his implacable leadership Erin is ever becoming more naionalistic and isolationist. These unpublicized incidents could have shown how the wind was blowing: British contractors recently hired about a thousand laborers from the "Emerald Isle" for greatly needed construction work in England under the supervision of U. S. engineers. Labor troubles developed among Scotch workmen and those from "the auld sod". As soon as the American-born Irish prime minister heard about them he immediately ordered his countrymen home and left the job unfinished.

Eire's independence was shown again in the money field. Five trustee savings banks in Dublin were divorced from English control by Taoiseach DeValera. Formerly they were under the British national debt commissioners, but now jurisdiction has been transferred to the department of finance. —Albert N. Leman.

American Blood, Sweat and Tears

NEW YORK,—Although our P-40 planes are tearing Japan's invading air armadas from the skies over Java, we have not yet been able to stop the undeviating drive down through the Netherlands East Indies. A crisis even more crucial to us than that in the Malayan peninsula is about to take place in those far-away isles which will cost Americans more blood, sweat and tears.

This vast archipelago, called "the girdle of emeralds", is bursting with wealth. Fertilized by abundant rainfalls, the country produced raw materials which crowded the holds of hundreds of vessels sailing to United States ports. Sugar, tea, quinine bark, Copra, palm oil, tobacco, coffee, sisal, and other exports went to the ends of the earth. If Borneo is conquered and Sumatra seized. rich hoards of tin and oil will nourish the Tokyo war machine. We shall never receive the so-called "nest-egg" rubber supply on which nearsighted Washington experts had counted so heavily to make up for the loss north of Singapore.

Two hundred and fifty thousand white people live among a native population of seventy millions. The Allied defense task not only is to fend off the Japanese attack, but also to bring in every scrap of machinery, farm implements, spare parts and repair equipment for civilian use. Confidential reports say that already scanty reserves are being consumed and no shipping can run the Nipponese blockade and return with the vital tools from Australia. —Albert E. Leman.

America's First Crusade

By HERBERT HOOVER

The purpose of this war is to bring a lasting peace to the world. Lasting peace can be made only if we have developed our thinking and prepared our ideas before the war ends. There will not be time enough after that. To make such a peace we must avoid the mistakes of 1919 and profit by that experience. An invaluable contribution to American thinking has been made by former President Hoover's memoirs on the Peace Conference at Paris in 1919, and written in 1934.

They are now published as a little book entitled AMERICA'S FIRST CRUSADE, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, price $1.25. Secure it from your local bookseller.

Harmless but suggestive

Converted one Sunday, a barber thought it his duty thereafter to speak to all who came into his shop, on the subject of religion. Truly he happened to be a very fluent speaker on most topics, but religion was new to him and he found it difficult to begin a a conversation. One morning a customer by the name of Smith was in the chair waiting to be shaved. As the barber leaned over to put on the lather he said rather sharply,

"Mr. Smith."

The customer was a bit startled and twisted his head so abruptly that he received a mouthful of soap. He noticed with mild concern that the barber had a rather strange fervid look on his face. Then without another word the barber walked to the strap and began sharpening his razor. About halfway through this operation, he turned suddenly and said:

"Mr. Smith, are you prepared to die?" 'Tis said that Mr. Smith was outside the door in two jumps and on his way elsewhere.

"de Aryan Comments"

(Friday 9:45 pm, KGB, February 20, 1942)

de ARYAN— I have invited Mrs. de Aryan to appear tonite as my guest on this program.

VEIVA— Tell me, what happened to the investigation which you suggested in your radio talk a few weeks ago, that the County Grand Jury make concerning those threatening telegrams sent to State Senator Fletcher by local labor leaders?

de ARYAN— Senator Fletcher informed me that the Grand Jury has decided to investigate his charges of intimidation. He was called to appear before a sub-committee of the Grand Jury last Wednesday, which he did.

VEIVA— So your criticism of the Grand Jury for taking no steps to investigate the matter seems to have resulted in action after all?

de ARYAN— It looks that way. You know I opposed Fletcher's election to Congress. But in this matter of threatening a legislator I am all the way on the side of the Senator against the labor racketeers who sent those wires to him.

VEIVA— Now I would like to ask you another question: Last Friday you announced in your radio program over this station that had the city authorities listened to your warning about lack of a master lever for opening all the cells in a block at the city jail, those five people who died a week ago Wednesday in the city jail fire and the 10 prisoners who suffered burns because they were not freed in time, would not have been among the casualties. What I want to know is why you did not repeat your warning every week till the mechanical master lever was installed; just think of it, it would have saved five lives and protected the other 10 prisoners from injury.

de ARYAN— People who lack imagination and have no sense of responsibility cannot be cured by men like myself exerting themselves to remedy defects. Now that we had the fire, of course everybody is hollering why the master device was not installed and why the fire extinguishers did not work and why there was no secondary lighting system provided for when the wires had burned out and darkness prevented the jailers from opening cells and finding their way about. Hindsight is marvelous, but I am showing up this lack of responsibility in every issue of my paper and I am pointing out perpetually conditions which produce much greater disaster than the jail fire, but who pays attention? I have foretold this war, shown the causes of it, shown how we could have kept out of it, but aside from the fact that events demonstrate how truly I spoke, the disaster is here just the same. A callous world has to learn by bitter experience, for after all my warnings will continue to be ridiculed even now.

V E I V A — I noticed in the papers a news item in which Professor Dr. Albert Guerard, Stanford professor of literature, also warns the world about the coming peace treaties which will finally come up to end this war. He seems to have ideas similar to yours.

de ARYAN— Why don't you read it to us?

V E I V A — The date line is from Palo Alto. "A post-war world, free from imperialism and in which ballots and not bullets will be the final authority, was pictured to Stanford University's alumni as the goal the United Nations must seek for a permanent peace after the war is won. Dr. Guerard is quoted as follows: 'If we must nurse even the faintest and most secret hope of Anglo-Saxon supremacy, many of us at home, who are already world citizens, will feel that such an ideal is not worth fighting for.' Guerard, Chancellor Ray Lyman Wilbur and others spoke at panel discussions which featured the two-day alumni conference Saturday and Sunday. Theme was what the United States and her Allies must do to win the war and guarantee a lasting peace."

de ARYAN— Thanks for calling our attention to this warning of Dr. Guerard, it coincides completely with mine. I also wish to call attention that on this basis of ballots instead of bullets, Count Leo Tolstoy predicted in 1910 already, which is four years before the first world war, that imperialism must vanish from the face of the earth and that the colored races would unite in one giant combination to free themselves from white men's domination, finally resulting in the United States of Nations in which the Mongolians form their own block of nations on an equal basis with the Slavs the Latins and the Anglo-Saxons. I published that prophecy three weeks ago but few people realize the full implication as to the actual outcome of this war. Tolstoy's prophecy is being fulfilled right now in the Pacific. If nations and rulers were wise enough to listen to men who have world vision, adjustments could be made without going to war. Fundamental law will prevail in the end, namely that people will not be ruled by force against their own interest. They will free themselves in the end.

VEIVA— That brings us to Abraham Lincoln whose birthday anniversary we celebrated yesterday. His most memorable warning in this matter could be applied equally today as in his day.

de ARYAN— Go ahead, quote him.

V E I V A — He said: "I appeal to you to constantly bear in mind that not with the politicians, not with the Presidents, not with office-seekers, but with you is the question. 'Shall the Union and shall the liberties of this Country be preserved to the latest generations?'."

de ARYAN— Do you know what the most important act of Lincoln was during his term of office?

V E I V A — He freed the blacks from slavery.

de ARYAN— I agree that was important, but it was not the most important act because it merely applied to the blacks, but what did he do for the whites?

V E I V A — You mean economic slavery?

de ARYAN— Now you are getting warm. Yes, he freed the whites from bondage too, from paying interest on public bonds. He issued U. S. bonds without going to the money changers for permission.

V E I V A — How did that happen?

de ARYAN— He was forced to do it. The International Bankers of that day were having their headquarters in London. England was on the side of the South, so naturally Lincoln could not float bonds with the International Combine so he HAD TO FLOAT BONDS which were good in the U. S. A. only and since nobody could loan him money he simply executed the provisions of our Constitution and had our own government print its own money, which means bonds without paying interest to the International Bankers. Those bonds are still in circulation and are as good money as the ones we pay inerest on.

V E I V A — But he did not live long enough to completely free the U. S. from bondage to the interest gatherers!

de ARYAN— You are right. He was shot and that made him the great martyr for liberty for blacks and whites alike. That's why his memory has gone down in history as the greatest American next to George Washington. If you wish, read us again his Gettsburg address.

V E I V A — "Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation may live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Good THOUGHT

Good WORD — Good DEED

Breath and Breathing

By Dr. O. Z. HA'NISH

The Science of Breathing is the fundamental principle of life for the development of physical qualities creating substances that will further the unfoldment of the mental realms. For this reason one is to pay attention to breathing instead of the organic condition, as the latter is compelled to adjust to a rhythm inducing a breath intelligent in operation. Rhythm of breath reveals the condition of mind and body, and may be changed to an extent most efficient to our welfare.

The lungs must be free from adhesions, not only assuring a betterment of health but also guaranteeing immunity from invasions of a foreign nature, whether it be patho-germs, bacilli, entozoas or microbes. Lungs under control insure mental development. Make rhythmic breathing a habit, morning, noon and evening, as well as before meal-time.

In breathing we are reminded of keeping the chin drawn in, mouth closed, teeth separated, tongue resting at lower part of the mouth. In fact, our tongue should always rest there, whether breathing or not, thus we would be spared many troubles. Never force breathing, as then the muscles would become tensed, proving a condition detrimental to the generation of electric fluids, retarding the blood from circulating freely through the lower part of the body.

Scientific minds have long since discovered that the panacea for human ills devised by materia medica avails one nothing. These may stimulate and act as counter irritants, but as to removing the evil itself they will have to resort to Mother-nature. An understanding of the operations of breath and breathing is needful and necessary. The rhythm of the breath should be considered, that of the clavicular, costal and diaphragmatic operations corresponding with one's temperament, needs and requirements, for the development of one at the expense of the other avails nothing.

The chest out affects the digestives—affects the thyroids and with it brings buoyancy, vim & vigour. At the same time it charges the intellect, assuring positiveness, alterness & concentration. All concentration exercises call for "position" with "chest up". We fail to derive good from psychological studies as long as proper posture or poise is neglected. We fall into lethargy, monotony, discouraged and disgraced, all because the "chest is not kept up". Breakfast, lunch and dinner; socials, movies and dances; tennis, pinochle and bridge parties; are not often neglected, then why not remind oneself of "chest up"? This position will correct the shape of the body, strenghten character lines, give the face graceful lines; the walk gives elasticity that not only adds to grace but assures aristocratic feeling.

With the mind concentrated upon breath and its operation Ga-Llama, or the centralizing life-principle, is retained to be used according to the conscious will of man.

WE EXPECT THE WAR TO CONTINUE for five years,—perhaps longer—so more food will be required for this reason; it is important for Southern California to plant as many acres as possible.

IN CORONADO— I estimate five thousand (5000) and in the San Diego section: forty thousand (40,000) acres can be ploughed. Potatoes, onions, beans and peas are most needed.

Dear Mr. de Aryan:

The following clipping out of AP papers this AM 2-10.—I had been told that this SULFO outbreak was on the way!—All MD'S have been flooded with information prior to this outburst in AP. We all have been informed that it's the great discovery and that ALL can be vaccinated with this drug and "go where they please, no danger of gon. or syph.!"

Dr. Geo. Starr White

When U and I and many others are trying to make the world better, here comes SATAN with a monstrous fraud to fool the weak minded, who are being made redy to die before getting into the gun war! What the Sulfos do not kill the guns may finish!

I already have had some of these victims—that they were "safe", so "went the limit".

NO WONDER THAT WE HAVE TO HAVE WARS TO CLEAN UP !

SULFA DRUG PREVENTIVE OF 2 SOCIAL DISEASES

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—A U. S. Navy discovery that sulfathiazol is a nearly 100 per cent preventive of two venereal infections was reported to the New York branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

In the Manila area this sulfa drug was given to 800 naval men who had been exposed to gonorrhea or chancroid. Only one man cought a disease, gonorrhea.

A remarkable feature was the fact that the sulfathiazol was given after exposure. A few of the men also had some other form of prophylaxis, but most of them nothing except the sulfa drug.

The report comes from the U. S. naval medical bulletin of January, written by Commander Maurice Joses, Medical Corps, U. S. N., and was read tonigh by Herman Goodman, M. D., chairman of the meeting.

Commander Joses stated that the sulfa preparation was tried after discouraging results due to a large number of venereal cases in spite of the usual methods of prophylaxis and the usual campaign of instruction.

The experiment was first tried on 350 men. They were given three doses of sulfathiazol, at 8 a. m., at noon and at 6 p. m. no infections appeared.

In the second experiment on 450 men the sulfa drug was reduced to give a little less at noon. The one who contracted gonorrhea was found to be one of those somewhat rare persons resistant to treatment with any of the sulfanilamides.

Dr. Goodman pointed out an almost forgotten medical fact that 25 years ago Dr. Frederick Sylvester Mason, New York City, reported sulfanamide dyes useful in treating gonorrhea. These dyes are the source of sulfanilamide and sulfathiazol. Nobody listened to Dr. Mason then, but today the sulfa drugs cure most of these cases, often in three or four days.

Billion Dollar Donations to Rothschild's Banking System

Mr. Editor:

As a reflex from letters coming to this office, pertaining to the corrupt practice of donating our tax exempt interest-bearing Government Bonds to the Big Banks, the impression is evident that we touched a live subject. Some denied that we donated the bonds to the big banks without one cent of payment. Others questioned it and many seem to be unable to understand just how this transformation, how Uncle Sam's bonds are monetized by the big banks. For this reason I would like to give a short synopsis explaining more in detail. This whole procedure however is explained in detail in our new book "Unrobing the Ghosts of Wall Street".

First, let me again refer to the concrete example. Up to date we have donated to the big banks approxiamtely $65,000,000,000, but that isn't near all.

Knox, our Secretary of the Navy, says the bond issues will run up to $90,000,000,000, and Morgenthau goes him one better and says $100,000,000,000, and England's Ambassador, Mr. Halifax, seems to think Knox and Morgenthau are ultra conservative..

First, I wondered what more conclusive testimony anyone could ask than the statement by the Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve Banks, Mr, Marriner Eccles, when he testified before the Committee on Banking and Currency during the hearings on the Banking Act of 1935 let me repeat his words:

He was asked how the banks that were busted in 1933 could buy $3,000,000,000 of Government Bonds and hand the money to the Government wherewith the Government should buy stock in the busted banks. If the Banks had the $3,000,000,000, why did they hand it to the government wherewith to buy stock in their banks? And how could it possibly benefit the banks? We will admit this would sound, if applied to an individual case, as though John Smith would lend Peter Jones money to lend back to John Smith.

Chairman Eccles explains, quote —"In purchasing offerings of Government bonds, the banking system as a whole creates new money, or bank deposits. When the banks buy a billion dollars of Government bonds as they are offered and you have to consider the banking system as a whole, as a unit—the banks credit the deposit account of the Treasury with a billion dollars. They debit their Government bond account a billion dollars, or they actually create, by a bookkeeping entry, a billion dollars, wherewith they bought the bonds".

RECAPITULATION

And so we print and donate to the banking system of the Nation our government bonds (Uncle Sam doesn't get a cent for his bonds, not even thanks from the banking system). Chairman Eccles explains the banks actually create the money wherewith they buy the bonds, create it by a credit entry on their ledger and a checkbook in the hands of Morgenthau (the Government), but no money changes hands ever. All this is explained in our new book "Unrobing the Ghosts of Wall Street".

But we do much more. We make our bonds tax free. That is we, the people, pay this added tax ourselves and save the banks. Pay tax on our debt.

But that isn't near all. We are now paying interest on the bonds we donated to the banks, approximately $2,500,000,000 a year. It's like giving a friend a Christmas present and having him demand interest on the present you gave him ever after.

But our generosity doesn't end here. We pay this interest semi-annually or quarterly so the banks can lend it over again to the people at as high as 25% interest through banks and finance corporations, or invest in some more of our farms, or lumberyards or chain stores, etc.

But I haven't told you the climax yet. Wait. We now allow the banks to deposit these bonds in their own Federal Reserve Banks that we the people built and paid for and donated to the Federal Reserve Banking System and havnig deposited the government bonds they got for nothing we now allow the banks to deposit these bonds in their bank and draw dollar for dollar in currency that we printed for them at a cost of 30c a thousand dollars. And so now the banking system owns the bonds we gave them on which they draw interest in full and the currency we printed and gave to them (a double gift) all tax free. Yes, get this right! First, we pay interest on the bonds at a rate of about 3½% or 4% and then they lend us the money we gave them based on the bonds we gave them, charging them only the cost of the paper and printing for the money (30c a thousand dollars) and they lend it back to us and charge us 25% through Finance Corporations, whom the banks finance, just a profit to the system of 8333 1-3 times more than they pay.

Now when you know this do you still wonder why 15% of our people live in luxury and 85% live below the American Standard of living.

The privilege of the banks to deposit the Government bonds and draw currency for the full amount was supposed to expire July 1, 1941, but they passed a bill through Congress permitting this privilege to be extended until July 1st, 1943.

But listen please, we do much more for the banks, we print bundles of this Federal Reserve Printing Press Money for the privately owned Federal Reserve Banks so they can have it just when they want it without asking for it, and we let them have these hundreds of millions without a note or a bond. What confidence in a bunch of racketeers that have robbed the people twenty-seven times and collapsed our Nation. But, don't blame the banks, let us rather blame ourselves for being such miserable infernal fools that we allow this to go on and on, and we are citizens of a civilized Nation and are supposed to run our government.

Why don't you order extra copies of this paper and send marked copies to your Senators and Representatives and challenge them to deny these facts, and if they say they don't understand the money question, tell them to look up and come home. God never intended them to be members of Congress if they don't understand the money question, it's just a great big mistake.

It was President Garfield, who said, "No one should hold any position in any law making body unless they understood the money question, as it is so closely interwoven with all legislation". Now if there is anyone that still doesn't understand how it is we donate our government bonds and money to the banking system, let me suggest that you write to the Constitutional Money League of America, Washington, D. C. or Minden, Nebraska, and get the book called "Unrobing the Ghosts of Wall Street", and you just can't help but understand all about it.

Did you ever try driving in the fog and your windshield wipers wouldn't work? Then all at once they start, and your vision clears. It makes you smile, you can see so clearly. Well, that is the way the book "Unrobing the Ghosts of Wall Street" affects you, it wipes away the mists and the fog that hinders your vision. It wipes the cobwebs from the mind and you see and understand.

But I almost forgot the superclimax. Oh yes, we not alone print the bonds and donate them to the banking system and print and donate the money (except for 30c a thousand dollars), but we put Uncle Sam's stamp on the currency guaranteeing this International Bankers bootleg money, guarantee it the same as we do our bonds, but there is still more. We make this bankers Federal Reserve Money Legal Tender for all purposes. That is we say to the people by law "You shall accept this bankers Federal Reserve counterfeit money in all transactions."

But comparitively I really haven't told you anything yet. Now listen; after we have purchased and obligated ourselves, we have contracted and mortgaged our homes and farms and promise to pay in this bankers created money, all at once this money octopus The Federal Reserve Banking System, without warning to the people or to the small commercial banks, this International Banker's Federal Reserve Banking System hold a secret meeting, controlled body, soul and breeches by the Rothschilds of England and their American Correspondent, J. P. Morgan, and their henchmen Kuhn-Loeb and Company, our Government's appointed agents with England, that have done over a billion dollars worth of business for our Nation in this World War. No wonder Uncle Sam is choking to death trying to breath the air with this bunch of racketeers.

But most prominent in these secret meetings is Montague Norman, President of the Bank of England—a private bank—who comes here in disguise with a false beard under an assumed name and a false passport, and with these also, Barney Baruch, listed in the Book "Sixty Families" as New York's billionaire Jew, who was appointed by President Roosevelt at the head of the War Industries Board. Yes, this is our Invisible Government, whose business it is to promote war and disturb peace if in any way it benefits Money Monopoly. In these meetings they take from the laboring man the products of his hand and brain by destroying our money supply as completely as the slave master ever took from the blackest slave with his cat-of-nine-tails whip, but they do more, they take from the father and mother the lives of their boys in bloody international war, if in any way it would benefit Money Monopoly, and when necessary they just call another meeting, as they did on May 18, 1920, and again in August, 1929, and the last time in April, 1937, and there decide to take our money away from us by restricting credit. That is they call in all old loans and refuse to renew or make new loans, and thus our money disappears into thin air from whence it came, and we have money panics, depressions or recessions, and, of course, we can't pay so our homes and farms are sold for the mortgage to the very corkscrew gang that created and destroyed our money.

They take away from us the money we had depended on and in which units we had promised to pay in order to redeem our homes and farms, and all that is necessary in order for Money Monopoly to accomplish this hold-up is just an order from the Federal Reserve Board, a bunch of men never elected by the people, but appointed by the President for political reasons and not because of their fitness, (the present Federal Reserve Board is evidence). Surely you haven't forgotten, you coudn't forget, 1920 when they took away from us $10,000,000,000, and 1929 when they took $8,000,000,000 and 1937 when they took $3,000,000,000 and wrecked our nation.

Friends, you that criticised me for writing the last article about "Donating Our Bonds to the Banking System", why in the name of a merciful God don't you wake up and prevent and prohibit this infernal steal from the people. You are the Government. Let me repeat the words of Abraham Lincoln:

"I appeal to you to constantly bear in mind that not with politicians, not with Presidents, not with office-seekers, but with you is the question, 'Shall the Union and shall the liberties of this Country be preserved to the latest generations?'."

Why don't you enclose 15 cents and send to the Constitutional Money League of America, Minden, Nebraska, a non-profit, non-racial, non-partisan educational organization and receive their primer in money called "Money and Democracy" a 32 page booklet.

C. G. BINDERUP,
President, The Constitutional Money League of America.

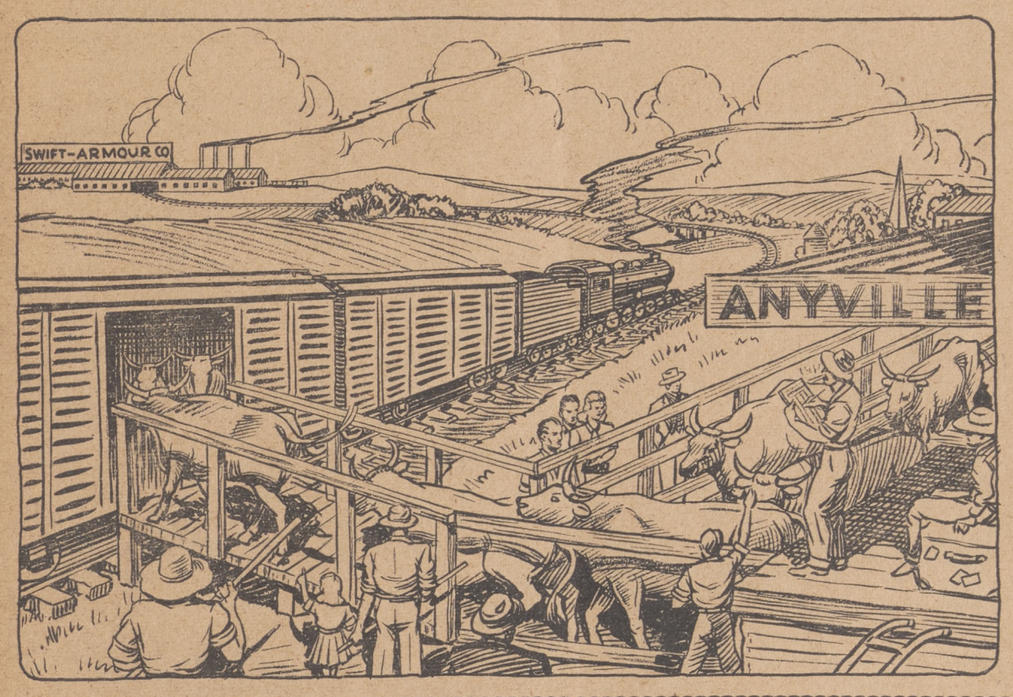
On Their Way



Late

WASHINGTON, — The American air corps made a galant, but futile, attempt to provide Hawaii with sufficient aerial force to repel the Jap's fatal attack of Dec. 7. Had warnings from London and elsewhere been heeded in time, the bomber reinforcements would have arrived at Honolulu early enough to change the whole course of the struggle.

As revealed here, Washington had plenty of advance notice. Anti-Japanese Koreans in this country and Hawaii gave word that Tokyo was geared for immediate war with the United States. So did several members of congress with Far Eastern connections. But these tips were disregarded as hysterical and unfounded. One week before the attack, the British secret service notified our people that the Japs might march within 10 days. Honolulu newspapers published banner headlines to that effect. Not until then did Washington really become alarmed.

The air corps on Friday, Dec. 6, mobilized every available bomber on the west coast. It canceled the sailings of planes converted from bombers to transports for ferrying pilots from Canada to England. They were ordered to make an emergency flight to Hawaii. They did. But they arrived many hours after the Japs had pulverized our aerial force. It is this unit, however, which recently outfought the Japs at Davao and elsewhere. They arrived, but too late—.

By Charles H. Ingersoll
(Of Dollar Watch Fame)

RUGGED INDIVIDUALSM VS. RUGGED COLLECTIVSM

NEW YORK,— Ruggedness is one of our prime virtues; yet I've seen it fastened upon another of our prime virtues—individualism—as a stigma, like the stigma of ISM to capital, and in fact from the same socialistic source.

Ingersoll

And I have wondered my way, during 50 years more or less, through the reason for this prefix RUGGED. And lo it traces to the same cause as the ISM; and lo again, the discovery and cause of the discovery is also the same fallacious but useful socialistic rabble-rousing persistence of the Marxists.

Marx tabooed the individual in favor of the social (all individuals) so all our individualisms to Marxists become rugged i. e. exploitive.

The fact is that these precious isms of our democracy were tangled with basic monopoly which did all the damage charged by Marxists against individualism. So we must credit and thank them for the indictment. And we must fit it to the monopolism it is made to fit; or else individualism must take the rap for monopoly.

A neutral appeasement of 'ruggedness' is all THAT is needed to build a working economic democracy from the two extremes of the individual and social philosophy. The status quo we call democracy, but we must know that it is only a fraction of it or we would not be in continuous trouble with it and face such culmination as the present, wherein democracy refuses to function at all. We must, as a condition-precedent to salvaging the democratic theory which is perfect, adopt the Jefferson primary tenets of (1) No monopoly, and (2) no bureaucracy. This is the only way to avoid the swing to the extreme of rugged or all-out-Marxism that answers our refusal to make basic monopoly yield the social half of the 400 billion dollars U. S. estate, by the demand for all of that estate. And if democrats can't see the logic in that, do we not deserve to lose our $200 billion of private property?

The 'Economist' who teaches that economic (land) rent goes into the price of goods and services sold on the site, is encouraged by comparing room rents in the Waldorf, $10.00, and the Y. M. C. A., $1.00 But this turns out a boomerang, as the land is more valuable on West 23rd Street than on East 49th.

Therefore, it is the difference in size and quality of rooms and furnishings, and the service given, that makes the 10 to 1 differential of price.

And any number of checkings in every line proves the same thing— that the higher the economic rent, the lower is the retail price.

Take the Woolworth 5 and 10 on 5th Avenue; or Macy's, where swarms of humanity create a land value yielding perhaps a million dollars rent yearly; and where these same swarms bring to these great stores enough trade to make the rent factor lower than over on a back street.

Mrs. America Meets The War

You can keep on sipping your tea, and it will be cheaper than at any time since last October. During December and January tea prices rose so sharply that the government placed a limit on wholesale tea prices. These prices are the same as those charged by wholesalers the first of last October and are as much as twelve cents per pound lower than current prices. For instance, the maximum price on common broken orange pekoe from Ceylon is fixed at 48 cents per pound; the price had risen to over 60 cents per pound. Similar reductions are being made on all types of pekoe from India, Ceylon and Java. At present there are large stocks of tea in this country, and imports are expected to be maintained.

The war is changing dress and stocking styles, and it's now getting down to shoes. This country's entire supply of goatskin, kidskin and cabretta is imported. Half of our goat and kidskin comes from India alone, and most cabretta (skin from "hair" as distinguished from "wool" sheep) comes from South Africa and South America. These skins are used especially in women's shoes, gloves and small leather goods. Although there is no present shortage, future supply is so uncertain that manufacturers have been asked to save skins by new methods and substitution.

Do you have an idle room or a guest room seldom used? If you are in a defense area, the government Homes Registration Office is definitely interested in that room. Branch offices are now operating in defense communities in 39 states and the District of Columbia and in California alone, offices have been set up San Diego, Long Beach, Burbank, Inglewood, Pasadena, Santa Ana and Oakland. Each one compiles and keeps up to date an index of all types of vacant living accomodations and aids defense workers in renting rooms apartments and houses.

Every week priorities take additional toll of long-familiar products. Eyelets for shoes, which annually require enough brass to make a million shell casings, must now be made from something else. Mattresses and studio counches are to be limited because of the growing military demands for domestic sisal and henequen fibers used for padding. Typewriters have just taken a cut and ultimately standard machines will be reduced 40 percent and portables 80 percent. From now on, no brush (paint, tooth, shaving, hair or scrub) can be made with more than 55 percent of Chinese hog bristles—the rest will have to come from such substitutes as horsehair, nylon, ixtle (fiber from the leaf of wild pineapple and various Mexican plants), and badger hair. Wool carders who formerly used hog bristles my have to use wire.

When your rubbers or raincoats are wet, don't do the easiest thing and put them by the kitchen stove to dry. Now that galoshes are as valuable as oranges were in grandmother's day, you should follow the conservation advice of the experts: (1) Keep rubbers and raincoats away from direct heat (2) keep them in a closet away from strong light.

Sheets and pillow cases will be wearing new labels this spring. In line with the government's policy of making price control mean quality control, bed linens sold after March 2 must carry a label stating quality and construction.. There will be four grades paralleling the maximum prices which have been set on the different types of cotton bed sheets, pillow cases and sheeting. If she knows her labels, Mrs. America can easily select linens of the weight and strength she wants, and know she is paying a fair price for the quality received. Substandards and seconds will be so marked and priced accordingly.

Sugar hoarders were not being smart after all. A hundred pounds of sugar will never be worth a fine of $10,00 or ten years in jail.

Plugging the Gap in the Regulations Safe-Guarding Health of Draftees - Enlisted Men

By H. B.. ANDERSON
Secretary, Citizens Medical Reference Bureau, Inc., 1860 Broadway, Suite 1715, New York.

The health of the 1,400,000 men comprising draftees and enlisted soldiers in the United States Army and Navy has been made the object of more nation-wide attention than has ever been accorded to any similar group in this country or in any other country.

If the expenditure of funds were able to buy health; if the best in the way of food, shelter, clothing, sanitation, hospital care and the latest discoveries of modern medical science could insure health, the enlisted personnel of the Army and the Navy should be the most healthy persons to be found anywhere.

However, in attempting to solve the health problems of draftees and enlisted soldiers there is one outstanding gap which in my opinion must be closed in order to guarantee the greatest possible freedom from disease in the Army and Navy.

The gap I refer to is the seeming mistake of assuming experts are in a better position to determine whether a long list of laboratory products for the alleged prevention of disease are necessary or whether draftees and enlisted soldiers who have attained physical perfection without the use of these products are entitled to be consulted about what forms of medical treatment they shall submit to.

Effect of Mental Confusion Upon Health Resulting from Use of Force to Compel Vaccines and Serums.

Mental confusion constitutes one of the greatest handicaps to good health. And the more mentally confused a man becomes the more likely he is to become sluggish; to lose his former sparkle; to lose his appetite and to fail to receive the full benefits of sleep. The result is that he thereby lowers his resistance to disease.

The use of force to compel submission to a variety of serums and vaccines may be accepted as a matter of routine by the majority of draftees and enlisted soldiers. On the other hand, a considerable number of persoons are sure to become mentally confused by such requirements for the following reasons:

Many persons find it difficult to reconcile the use of force in controversial medical matters with the democratic way of life, which they are being trained to protect.

They become fearful that their physical condition may become impaired due to the cases of illness and fatalities which sometimes follow the use of these preparations and they know that there is no positive guarantee that the use of these serums and vaccines may not be classified by the medical experts a few years hence as a horrible mistake as has been done in so many instances heretofore when millions of doses of a particular serum have been administered and later it has been announced that it did not do one bit of good.

Also the use of force to compel medical treatment robs the individual of that feeling of human relations betwen practitioner and patient which is so essential for the safeguarding of personal health.

A Resume of the Compulsory Medical Program

A United Press dispatch dated "Washington, June 13," 1941 contains the following announcement:

"Another 'shot-in-the-arm' for disease prevention was added today to the list already required of American soldiers.

"The war department announced that henceforth all soldiers will receive the new tetanus toxoid treatment for immunization against infection.

"Other immunizing 'shots' on the Army's compulsory list are those for smallpox and a series of three for typhoid. Troops sent outside the United States on duty in the tropics are also given treatments against yellow fever and other tropical diseases."

Charles M. Walson, Colonel Medical Corps, U. S. A., Surgeon, Second Corps Area, Governors Island, New York, in an address published in the New York State Journal of Medicine, June 1, 1941, also mentions a long list of other vaccines and serums which may be used for the prevention of other diseases. He says:

" . . . Diphtheria toxoid or scarlet fever toxin may be used in localized outbreaks of diphtheria and scarlet fever among young recruits.

"Our troops may be sent to localities where they have to be vaccinated against yellow fever, cholera plague & typhus fever. As a matter of fact, a vaccine that has been manufactured since 1936 by the Rockefeller International Health Board, consisting of an attenuated, living strain of yellow virus maintained by cultivation in the living chick embryo, is available for our troops that are sent to regions where yellow fever may occur.

"Anticholera vaccines have been used for many years. . . . If our troops were exposed to epidemic plague, either the bubonic or pneumonic type, the use of a bacterial vaccine against the disease should be carefully considered.

"Typhus fever is a wartime disease . . . Vaccines as a protective measure are believed effective as the result of animal experimentation, and arrangements have been made to manufacture it in large quantities should it be required.

"The vaccine prepared by the International Health Board from strains of influenza and distemper viruses grown together in tissue culture is now being used for the prevention of influenza in man. This may become the greatest weapon for the control of this disease in the Army.

"Since 1936 the Army has been interested in determining the prophylactic value of certain pneumococcic polysaccharide solutions against pneumonia. The results so far reported are encouraging. Specific agents are needed for the protection of troops in the field against such diseases as measles, mumps, meningitis, pollomyelitis, encephalitis, gas gangrene, malaria, relapsing fever, oroya fever, and the venereal infections."

Uncertainties and Dangers of Vaccines and Serums for Prevention of Disease.

If a resident of the United States writes to the military authorities protesting against compulsory inoculation he is very likely to receive a communication in reply stating that "The principles of medical practice and preventive medicine in vogue in the Army are those taught in the leading medical schools of the country and accepted by the American Medical Association."

What this reply fails to take into account is that data supplied by the American Medical Association along with the leading medical schools of the country has done much to enlighten the public about the possibilities of serum sickness and the many instances where laboratory products have been recomended and later abandoned.

Also it should not be forgotten that experience in the last World War proved conclusively that medical scientists were unable to prevent typhoid fever by vaccination in the presence of gross insanitary conditions.

Also experience in the civilian population has proven that smallpox, typhoid fever, diphtheria & scarlet fever can be wiped out without the use of force to compel any form of medical treatment.

And it is a matter of record that millions of doses of influenza serum were used during the last World War and later medical scientists made the positive declaration that the use of this serum did not do one bit of good.

Says If Influenza Came Tomorrow They Could Not Stop It

That so-called medical science is subject to limitations in the prevention of disease is clearly shown by the following extracts in the "Prologue" to a book by Geddes Smith entitled "Plague on Us", published by The Commonwealth Fund, 1941:

"We have rid the world entirely of any single infection known to man, and some we have not yet begun to fight . . . Influenza kept step with the last war. If it came tomorrow we could not stop it."

In this connection it is significant to note that England has repeatedly gone out of its way to assure its soldiers that they are free to decide for themselves whether or not they shall be vaccinated or inoculated.
